

Quality Policy

Stirling Business Consulting is a company that provides consultancy services to organisations wishing to establish management systems. Focusing on the areas of quality, environmental, OHS and information security management, Stirling Business Consulting designs and establishes management systems, and assists organisations to maintain them. Our mission overall is to be flexible and client-focused in the course of providing practical, high-quality consultancy that results in high levels of customer satisfaction.

Given our line of work, Stirling Business Consulting regularly observes and strongly endorses the benefits of quality management. As such, in line with our strategic direction and in order to be seen to “practise what we preach”, we have established and implemented our own quality management system, based on the requirements of ISO 9001:2015. We commit to maintaining and continually improving the system, as well as satisfying all applicable requirements, including customer requirements.

In line with these aims, Stirling Business Consulting has established quality objectives at relevant functions and levels of the organisation. Quality objectives are established and reviewed during QMS management reviews and recorded in the Strategies and Objectives Register.

Stirling Business Consulting maintains this policy as per the requirements of our Control of Documented Information Procedure and reviews it at management review.
